

 ABOUT PW COMMS

No Challenge Too Big, No Detail Too Small, No Time To Lose.

The way in which businesses operate has changed dramatically over recent years. PW Comms recognize now more than ever that bandwidth and throughput are critical to business today. PW Comms provides network infrastructure solutions which support your needs now and in the future.

PW Comms are experienced in providing IT infrastructure, both to large corporations and small business. PW Comms are a quality designer and installer of IT infrastructure systems. We have built our portfolio of products and people to deliver standards-based technologies that support the transition to higher-bandwidth networking. PW Comms recognises the need for solutions that address a number of key areas including performance, manageability, productivity, speed, security, reliability, flexibility, lower costs and ease of use.

We provide a wide range of design, implementation and project management services for small to medium projects, large contracts and nationwide roll-outs. In all cases a range of high quality market-leading structured cabling systems are available, supported by incomparable service from experienced and professional teams.

By continuing to work with the best-of-breed manufacturers in all key networking technologies and disciplines, we integrate the right networking products and capabilities to deliver convergence and the tightest performance for today's business.

Why should you choose PW Comms?

As the voice and data markets continue to converge, with much press on Voice over IP, IP Telephony and Wireless Communication, PW Comms are well positioned with real expertise and pedigree in both the data and voice worlds at logical and physical levels. This breadth of scope leads to less risk for our customers who are keen to capture the commercial benefits of adopting networking systems that will handle these convergent technologies. If you are considering:

Structured Cabling
Wireless Networks
Remote Workers

Fibre Cabling
Voice over IP
LAN/WAN

Then these essential building blocks, without which a system may fail to function correctly or at optimum efficiency, must be brought together in a coherent and effective solution, by a company with the skills experience and expertise.

At PW Comms we have demonstrated and delivered these attributes to our customers.

An attitude of getting the job done right and first time is the PW Comms attitude and culture. The five PW Comms ideals of

Vision

Design the system with the future in mind.

Commitment

Invest the time and energy in what has to be done.

Discipline

Deliver on time, to specification and within the budget every time.

Focus

On what needs to be done to achieve the success.

Persistence

When the going gets tough the tough get going.

“We ensure the business relationship we build with your company will be one for today and tomorrow”
